The Power of Language

Technology has created a world without borders, and today's learners will need to compete in a competitive global job market. In addition, studies show that learning another language strengthens cognitive abilities in one's native language and in mathematics and can improve memory. World language study at the middle and high school levels has never been more important.

But world language programs face significant budget cuts and shortages of qualified teachers. As schools strive to do more with less, online options open doors to schools and districts of all sizes who want to offer high-quality, wide-ranging world language instruction to all students.

Standards-aligned Curriculum

Developed by language instruction experts, Powerspeak courses are aligned to rigorous national standards, as set forth by the American Council on the teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL), as well as to state standards.

Interactive and Engaging

Students are actively engaged in highly interactive assignments, assessments, and games to build a solid foundation in their language of choice.

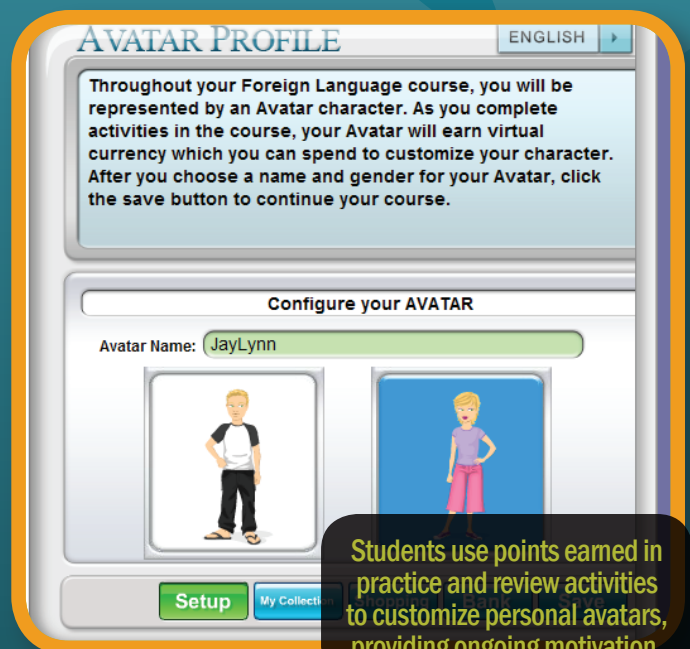

A robust collection of engaging videos open students' eyes to the cultures where their language of choice is spoken.

A variety of interactive practice activities reinforce speaking, listening, reading, writing, and vocabulary skills.

Gameshow-style cumulative review activities let students review unit assessments and demonstrate what they know.

Students use points earned in practice and review activities to customize personal avatars, providing ongoing motivation.
